

To Whom It May Concern:

As Alexa's Introduction to Public Relations NSCC course instructor, I can recommend Alexa as a thoughtful, energetic self-starter. I am impressed with her drive to improve and succeed.

She is punctual and delivers on deadline. With each assignment, I see improvement. She is a diligent listener and reaches out for clarification when necessary. Alexa also goes above and beyond - which is admirable.

I understand she is looking for work in data analysis and research. Her determination, and need to dig deeper, serves her well and I see it carrying through in researching and analyzing any field.

Her career goals also include developing websites, and extending website reach, with search engine optimization. I see her skills being very applicable to her objectives.

She works part-time at Naturalizer Shoes and often thinks of new ideas for her employer's marketing. As she learns more about Public Relations, her thoughts will become sharper.

With her determination in education, she has a French Immersion degree from the Université de Moncton which lead to her to being bilingual, and her French Language and Literature degree from St. Mary's University in Halifax, I expect good things from Alexa in her future.

Sincerely,

Steve Warburton B.A., B.J.
